armies have forced campaigns in northern to have placed Carranza in a much better position than he has been for some time, but Villa representatives in Washington contend that losses by their forces have been greatly exaggerated by the Carranzistas. They point particularly to the case of Torreon, which they say has not only not been evacuated by Gen. Villa, as Carranzistas have reported, but is not likely to be.

Carranza is making a desperate demonstration in the north, calculated to impress the pan-American powers whose impress the pan-Amarican powers whose diplomats are participating in the peace conferences. Also elsewhere it is reported that their forces in the past three days have defeated bandits in battles between Orizaba and Vera Cruz. The isthmian railroad, at Orizaba, State Department reports say, is being guarded by 5,000 Carranza troops.
